

General George Washington Will Help Make Your Next Civic, Corporate Or School Event A Revolutionary Success That Everyone Will Fondly Remember...

Whether you're an educator who wants to help students experience history, a businessperson who must top last year's popular off-site meeting or a civic group volunteer tasked with finding a dynamic speaker, you won't go wrong by emulating our Founding Fathers. They relied on George Washington to save the day. You can count on nationally known George Washington "living biographer" Carl Closs to help make your event a revolutionary success.

Carl is a former educator and senior business executive who has dedicated his retirement toward helping children and adults discover George Washington. His portrayal goes much deeper than simply donning a uniform. Carl is a serious scholar and lively speaker who delights audiences with little-known, instructive and entertaining Washington facts that parallel the challenges and situations we face today in our homes, classrooms and workplaces. Plus, Carl will work closely with you to custom tailor his performance to meet your exact requirements.

Carl Closs delights nationwide audiences that range from schoolchildren to business executives with his stirring portrayal of George Washington. Clients praise his work with adjectives like "fabulous" and "terrific." Carl's enthusiasm for introducing Washington to present-day Americans and his encyclopedic knowledge about "the Father of Our Country" explain part of this success. But you'll discover that Carl's willingness and ability to fully customize a program to meet the exact needs of you and your group is what will really make his appearance so memorable. And no location is too remote. Carl has appeared before groups located throughout the continental USA and France.
